The Four Stragglers

By FRANK L. PACKARD

Copyright, 1924, Geo. H. Doran Co. Serialized by Ledger Syndicate.

CAPTAIN FRANCIS NEWCOMBE, ex-officer in the great war, who breaks into society, but who is really still a Yank, noted for his underworld work, in charge of certain big steals that have set London ajar.

RUNNELLS, a valet, who had done some big thefts on his own account, and

THE FOURTH STRAGGLER, who hears the crooks agree to combine against the aristocracy and who disappears.

POLLY WICKES, a flower-girl whom Newcombe has adopted and sent to America to find a finishing school, with the idea of finding a suitable mate for the best before he leaves England, after executing some big deals. She is the friend of DOROTHY, a New Englander of an eccentric millionaire and her guest at a big show place on the Florida Keys, where MURKIN, alias the mad magnate, has buried more than half a million dollars, the existence of which Newcombe learns inadvertently from his maid.

HOWARD LOCKE, son of a big business man, who takes Newcombe and Runnels to Florida on his steam yacht. He falls in love with

"We'll, your search is ended, then, that will give you any further satisfaction," said Captain Francis Newcombe gruffly. "It's white shirt sleeve was the least of it. His face and throat were covered with round, purple blisters, and his shirt was absolutely singed. He had the appearance of having been crushed—as they say a python crushes a victim in its folds. And damn it, that's not far from what happened! How he had first come into contact with the monster I don't know, but he had been in a fight with a gigantic octopus, and had been managed to crawl ashore out of the thing's reach temporarily, and had died there." Captain Francis Newcombe laughed unpleasantly. "The reason I know this is because I saw the creature; the tide was higher, and when he was found the body—was black and empty of its organs. You will pardon me, perhaps, if I do not describe it in detail. It—er—wasn't nice."

Locke stared at the other for a moment.

"That's a rather strange story," he said slowly. "But I can't see what it would do you any good to tell me."

Captain Francis Newcombe helped himself to another cigarette, lighted it, and suddenly flung a mocking laugh at Locke.

"No, he said, "I'm afraid that's the truth. And so, I wish you good to me now. And so, I wish you well tell you, too, that there's no use sending that cable to London about Mrs. Wickes, either. Mrs. Wickes is

CONDUCTORS GO ON NEW PAY SCHEDULE

Brakemen Also Share in Increase—Engine Men Reject Raise.

Conductors and brakemen on trains operating in and out of Janesville are now working under the 6 per cent increase in pay which went into effect this week, retroactive to May 1. With the new pay rate, roads have lengthened freight trains from 36 to 40 cars.

Conductors, including in a limit of increase by the roads, have turned the raise down. The increase in pay for these men was given collectively, but negotiations are now being carried on by union representatives with individual roads in the middle west.

The railroads asked that the roads agree to cancel several rules on working conditions. It was because of this request that the enginemen declined, according to a local union official. One of the rules the roads desired to do away with was the 14-hour agreement whereby it is now impossible for the roads to go over a run out and make them lay over at an intermediate station. If that rule were changed, the enginemen say, they would often be stranded at small places. Another rule is the short-turn-around under which the roads cannot mix short and long trips for the same crew.

WILL LET CHURCH CONTRACT IN JUNE

Plans for the new First Lutheran church of Janesville are expected to be in the hands of the building committee within a few days and may be secured and the contract let during June, James R. Jensen said Friday.

The plans recently accepted by the committee are being drawn by William C. Jones, Chicago architect. The church building committee, of which Mr. Jones is chairman, plans to advertise bids, Mr. Jones is the architect who designed the Cargill Memorial church built here 16 years ago.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor Gazette: In your issue of Tuesday, May 27, on page 12, there was an item to which we quote in part as follows: "The hazard of the electric bed pad used as a bed warmer is well recognized." This is absolutely in contradiction to the facts. The electric bed pad sold by reputable dealers has been passed by the National Bureau of Standards, and it seems that this is all that should be necessary. The electric bed pad or warmer is not a fire hazard any more than any other piece of electric apparatus you use in your home. All good pads are fully protected by at least two thermostat controls which automatically throw off the current when the heat builds up to a certain point.

We trust that you will make this necessary correction.

WITH THE FARMERS

Farm Bureau Official Information

ONE OUT OF FOUR FARMS IN STATE NEEDS DRAINAGE

More than one-fourth of the farms in the state contain land which needs drainage.

Figures based on the census of 1920 show that 52,000, or 27 per cent of the 190,000 farms in the Badger state have wet spots which reduce the value of the land for cultivation. In drainage work now being done emphasis is being placed upon the draining of the wet spots in the cultivated fields rather than upon the organization of new drainage districts.

Studies on the durability of different kinds of tile under various soil conditions have been continued during the year by E. B. Jones and O. R. Zeasman of the agricultural and engineering staff of the state agricultural college. These investigations, in co-operation with the United States department of agriculture, have found that, in general, comparatively poor concrete tile are standing up well in clay subsoils, but only the best show signs of permanence in peat. Long lasting concrete tile, when laid in peat, are obtained when the tile is made with low absorption and is secured by firm packing and well selected material in the manufacturing process.

MISSOURI BANKERS TO VISIT WISCONSIN

Kansas City—Bankers, business men and county agents to the number of 100 will invade "the land of milk and money" for six days this summer.

The trip will last from July 6 to July 11, and three or four days will be devoted to visiting farms and investigating conditions in several Wisconsin counties, where various phases of diversified farming and dairy industry may be seen at close range. Dane, Clark, Winnebago, Fond du Lac and Winona counties are scheduled for the itinerary.

T. M. Jeffords, agricultural agent of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railway line, already has been in Wisconsin making the necessary plans for accommodations and arranging for side trips and field inspections. He has conducted many such parties to Wisconsin during the past 10 years and is very familiar with every part of the state. D. L. Harcourt, dairy specialist, and A. J. Metcalf, agricultural agent of Frisco railroad, will co-operate with Jeffords in conducting the tour. Both have been in Wisconsin on similar trips many times before.

In addition to inspecting farm conditions, the visitors will inquire into the program of co-operation with the farmers followed by the bankers and business men of the Badger state. They will also inspect Wisconsin's system of marked, paved and macadam roads.

Quotings from the circular sent to bankers of Kansas and Missouri, the reasons for visiting Wisconsin are:

A number from Rock county are:

Out of Respect for Our Honored Heroes

we bow our heads today to those who made the supreme sacrifice—and to those who were ready and willing to face any dangers that we might remain free.

REHBERG'S

The United States census shows that the farms in Wisconsin with diversified farming and dairy, were predominant, and producing double the income per acre were received from farms in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska. Records also show that banking in Wisconsin is about 16 times as safe as it is in Kansas and Missouri. The banking department of Wisconsin suggests that from 1910 to 1920 there were but two bank failures in the state in which the depositors lost any money. Every banker in Kansas and Missouri should know about banking in Wisconsin and realize what it means to have prosperous farmers."

planning to attend the John Erickson dispensary in Wausau on June 12, 1924, head being the outstanding head of Wisconsin in production records and one of the best breed collections of black and whites in America.
